

YOUNG METHODOLOGIST 2016 EAM AWARD

Best oral communication

It is our pleasure to announce that the European Association of Methodology (EAM), on the occasion of the VII European Congress of Methodology, announces a special award for the best oral communication presented by a young methodologist.

These are the general requirements for participation:

- Candidates must be either a graduate student or early-stage researcher (born in 1981 or later) who are presenting author of an oral communication.
- Candidates that not yet have read their Doctoral Thesis or having done so, that this be within the last two years.
- Candidates must be registered for attending the congress.

Each candidate should submit their accepted abstract at the congress together with CV (2 pages max) to the 2016 EAM Congress: Dr. Albert Sesé (albert.sese@uib.es), not later than July, 18, 2016.

Selection process will be guided on the basis of both their CV, abstract and of their exposition of the oral communication. Selection will be done by the members of the Scientific Committee of the Congress.

Award consists of both a Special Diploma and the publication of the oral communication in a special number of Methodology (EAM Journal), but following the journal publication guidelines. This award will be publically presented to the winner on Friday, 29th July, 16:30 in plenary session.

On behalf of the European Association of Methodology, I want to encourage young methodologists to apply for this prestigious award.

Prof. Albert Sesé
Chair of the VII European Congress of Methodology